DESCRIPTION

Visit America's most unique microbrewery, and the first farmstead brewery to be built in a century. Brewery Ommegang is situated on a 135 acre former hops farm astride the Susquehanna River, just five minutes from Cooperstown. The brewery uses only traditional Belgian brewing methods, European specialty malts and hops, open fermentation, bottle-conditioning, and warm cellaring.

For much of the 19th century, Otsego County was the center for hops growing in America – at times eighty percent of the hops produced came from within a forty-mile radius of Cooperstown. Brewery Ommegang revives the local brewing tradition, while bringing the most complex sophisticated and awarded beer styles in the world to one of the most beautiful communities in upstate New York.

DIRECTIONS

A short ten-minute drive from downtown Cooperstown, on the River Road. Located midway between Cooperstown and Milford on County Route 33.
